Establishment

§ 1. The Federal Bureau of Anti-Corruption (hereinafter referred to as BAK) is an institution of the Austrian Federal Ministry of the Interior established outside the Directorate-General for Public Security. Its goals are the effective nationwide prevention of and fight against corruption, including cooperation with the Public Prosecutor's Office for Combating Economic Crime and Corruption (WKStA), as well as the performance of core tasks in the field of security police and criminal police cooperation with foreign and international anti-corruption institutions [§ 6, paragraph 1, Security Police Act (SPG), Federal Law Gazette (BGBl.) No. 566/1991].

Organization

(3) A person may only be appointed as director or deputy director if he has special knowledge as well as national and international experience in the field of prevention of and fight against corruption. Furthermore, a person may only be appointed as director if he has been employed for at least five years in an occupation requiring a degree in Law or Economics, and as deputy director if he has been employed for at least three years in such occupation.

(4) A person may not be appointed as director or deputy director if he is a member of the federal government, a government of a Land, or a general representative body, or if he has held one of these positions in the previous six years.

(5) For the selection of the other employees of the BAK, account should be taken of whether they have the legal and other knowledge, skills and aptitudes required to fulfil the tasks of the specific post, as well as sufficient relevant work experience. Prior to their employment, director and deputy shall be consulted.

(6) Director and deputy are not permitted to engage in any gainful outside employment with the exception of publications and teaching activities.

(2) For reasons of expediency, the BAK may assign certain investigations to other law enforcement authorities and departments. It may also order the respective entity to directly report to the BAK, at regular or specified intervals, on the progress of a case.

(3) The BAK may transfer investigations to other competent law enforcement authorities and departments if there is no particular public interest regarding the importance of the criminal offence or of the person investigated. The relevant public prosecutor's office shall be informed of such transfer.

(5) In order to carry out the administrative work of the Commission for Legal Protection, the Federal Minister of the Interior shall provide the necessary equipment and personnel.

(6) The members of the Commission for Legal Protection are entitled to receive remuneration commensurate with the time and effort required. (3) At any time, the BAK shall allow the Commission for Legal Protection access to all documents and records necessary for the performance of the Commission's duties and, at the Commission's request, provide it with free copies of individual files; in this respect official secrecy does not apply towards the Commission. However, official secrecy does apply regarding information and documents revealing the identity of persons or sources that – if made public – would endanger the security of the nation or of persons, as well as regarding copies including information that – if made public – would endanger the security of the nation or of persons.

(4) The Commission for Legal Protection may report on its findings to the Federal Minister of the Interior or – where deemed appropriate – to the public at any time. Moreover, the Commission for Legal Protection may address recommendations to the Federal Minister of the Interior or the director.

(5) By 30 April of the following year at the latest, the Commission for Legal Protection presents an annual report on the performance of its functions to the Federal Minister of the Interior. In accordance with the right to information and inspection laid down in Article 52a of the Federal Constitutional Act (B-VG), the Federal Minister of the Interior shall make this report available, at its request, to the Permanent Subcommittee of the Parliamentary Committee on Internal Affairs for the evaluation of measures to protect the constitutional institutions and their ability to act.

(6) The Commission for Legal Protection is neither responsible for tasks of the security police or criminal police, nor is it an administrative or disciplinary authority. It shall report relevant facts to the competent authorities.
